

FRIDAY, MARCH 25, 1892.

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY MORNING.

J. H. ROBERTS, Editor and Proprietor.

ALEXANDER Hamilton's old home in New York City was sold Tuesday for $140,500.

AN appropriation of $15,000 dollars has been obtained for Rough River. Hartford will have slack-water navigation after a little.

THE Owensboro Messenger owned up Tuesday thusly: "The melancholy days for Democracy have come; the silver trouble begins in the House today."

A FINE life size portrait of the late Hon. H. D. McHenry can be seen at the Bank. It calls to memory the honest face of Hartford's most lamented citizen.

"We have cheapened sugar and quinine." Really, have "we"? When? Where? "We" will doubtless claim next that "we" have passed the McKinley bill.

MILLS goes into the Senate and like a great many other men whose ambition carries them beyond their depth he will sink into political insignificance.

BEFORE a man asks for a discussion he should know what his own party is in favor of. At present the Democracy is completely at sea on the Tariff and almost everything else.

THE Governor has issued a proclamation calling for the election of a Congressman in the Tenth District to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Representative Kendall. The election will be held April 28.

IN Judge A. B. Baird's death, Hartford loses one of her oldest and most respected citizens. The members of the C. P. Church speak of holding memorial services at their next meeting in honor of their lamented brother.

SUNDAY'S Courier-Journal in speaking of the Henderson State Line says: "The building of the road will now be begun in earnest." The contract has been let to Oliver Ferguson & Co., of St. Louis, who will begin work at once and the road assumes the air of a certainty.

AN APPEAL TO REASON.

IN answer to the petition of the people of Ohio county, the Legislature passed a law prohibiting the sale of intoxicating drinks in any quantity whatever, either directly or indirectly, within the limits of the county. But before such law should go into effect an election was to be held to take the sense of the people whether they would adopt it. A majority of about seven hundred citizens said by their votes that the law was good and that Ohio county would be better off without the sale of intoxicants. The fact that this law originated with the people and was not operative until voted on by them makes it the completest example of the action of a pure democracy possible in a representative form of Government.

IN view of these facts, it is passing strange that any man who knows the advantages to be gained by the supremacy of law should studiously and wilfully violate the will of his fellow citizens so emphatically expressed. That such is the case, however, no observing citizen can deny. What save the love of money can prompt men to such action? Why will some of our citizens purchase the sufferance of a power they fear presumably for the express purpose of shielding them in an illicit traffic, when, in the pursuit of such traffic, they as grossly violate State law as they would National law if they had not paid the special tax? Do they set State and county authority at naught? Their action is an open insult not only to these but to the people. What can a man gain by violating law? Surely nothing save, perhaps, a few paltry dollars. He cannot hope to gain friends; he cannot hope to increase the confidence of the people in himself.

He cannot hope to win the approval of his own conscience or the favor of his God. Will not those who thus bid defiance to law and good government be reasonable? We appeal to your own reason, your own sense of honor and ask you in all candor would it not be best for you as well as for the people if you would cease your violations of the prohibition law?

We think we see evidences of good already arising from the efforts put forth for law and order. There seems to be less drunkenness and disorder on our streets. And coupled with the good thus evident the religious revival of the last three weeks comes with all its power for good, with its ameliorating influence and its reviving of moral force in the community. With all this before the people there is but one conclusion, that the moral law-abiding citizens are constantly reinforced. No power on earth can resist a community of religious men, women, boys and girls.

Will not those who have violated law cease their evil ways and throw themselves on the great tide of moral improvement that is sweeping over Hartford?

Think about these things honestly and dispassionately.

KNOCKED OUT.

Dave Smith Puts the Herald Man Under the Ropes.

OWENSBORO, March 21.

EDITORS REPUBLICAN:—The people of Ohio county have naturally expected, and still await a reply to the questions so repeatedly put to the Herald in regard to Boodle, and as a consequence of the miserable excuse of an answer published by the Herald last week, they may think it is due to the "insignificance" of the writer. I, myself, have never expected an answer for I knew all along the line that the Herald's cry of corruption was only an inglorious attempt to cover up its party's foot-prints.

If I have made a mistake in taking to myself any charges preferred by the Herald against Revenue Officers, who came to Ohio county in 1890, I respectfully ask you to designate the persons to whom you had reference in your frequent allusion to the Boodlers who came from Owensboro. After your avowal to be candid and open in all your charges you cannot deny this request, that thereby no more mistakes may arise. I will readily accept your statement, Editor Herald, that you were not thinking of me at all, in view of the recent "cut and dried" Convention in New York where his "idol" Grover Cleveland was entirely "out of sight" and doubtless in the agitated state of his mind his javelins must have been hurled at that "delicate Davie" of Tammany fame. This must be why the Herald seems to have such a bitter feeling against the so called "cut and dried" can-can.

Knowing the Editor Herald to be the best experienced and informed local editor of the State in the use of of Boodle, I refer to him an inquiry that is now arising throughout the country. It seems that after this "cut and dried" Convention in New York, in which the "idol" is overthrown and David B. Hill steps in, Cleveland's friends immediately come to the front by raising $100,000, and the question now is, what is to be done with this money?

Though we know you to have shown the most perfect knowledge of the doings of all the Conventions, it is a mystery how you could have been informed of my visits to the leaders of the Republican party in Ohio county previous to the Convention of March 7th. However, it is more apparent to me that you should know of my visits to the negro cabins of Ohio county, for, by chance, we met at one of these abodes. This high-minded "idol" and intellectual Editor discusses all subjects upon only an intelligent and elevated plane, yet, in his efforts to recover his equilibrium, after such unchallenged evidence of his own duplicity in the corruption of his party, he loses his equilibrium and his frail supports to the level of answering, just and true charges by a return of personal abuses, and an effort at race prejudice. Every fair-minded person can see that every attempt at an answer has brought forth nothing but an additional amount of abuse and false statements. I am in doubt whether to attribute many of his misrepresentations to ignorance, or a natural disposition for falsifying. It is either a very ignorant, or a very untruthful man, who claims to inform his readers, and then tell them that a U. S. Store-keeper receives $5.00 per day. This is only another appeal of the demagogue to a sentiment of prejudice that may exist among the people. I believe that the majority of Ohio county citizens (this Editor excepted) know that such an officer has never received more than $4.00 for every day actually served. Is this a fair-minded discussion?

He who cannot tell the truth in small things, cannot be relied upon in giving information in great things. Look at the Herald when the first reply comes to his long-continued tirade upon "Republican Boodle." Nothing is heard save a bombastic explosion upon personalities and the question of Boodle was of such little importance that it was left unanswered. In the second reply the subject under discussion was entirely ignored and the Herald denies making any personal allusions to me, but though the writer had the misfortune of never to have received scarcely a thought from the Herald, yet it, in an underhanded and crafty way, seeks to weaken the effect of my appeal to the people by slanderous thrusts at my personal actions.

Having been a resident of Ohio county the greater part of my life, serving the people in different public capacities, and having, I trust, the welfare of its people as much at heart as the Editor of the Herald, I feel convinced that the weak and despicable efforts of that paper to "get upon its feet" again will be readily recognized.

D. L. SMITH.

PLEASANT RIDGE.

THE interest in Prof. I. S. Mason's school is unabating, and our people are fully aroused in the educational work. An effort to establish a high school at this place, is meeting with favor and prospects are flattering at present. Susie King, Ladson, U. C. Bozarth, Boda, Sue Mosley, Whitesville, J. C. Reynolds, Masonsville, and J. J. Leach, Sutherland, are new matriculates since my last report.

making 18 boarders and 35 matriculates. With an undivided effort on the part of our citizens, Pleasant Ridge will become the "Athens" of Daviess county in the near future. B. A. Cundiff filled his regular appointment at this place Saturday night and Sunday.

Quarterly meeting will be held here Tuesday the 29th of this month. The entertainment given by W. Holbrook and wife Saturday night was attended by a gay crowd and enjoyed by all.

Miss Sue Jenkins visited her friends at home Saturday and Sunday.

W. E. Bennett gave Boda a flying visit Saturday and Sunday. The organization of the Baptist Church is changed from the 30th of April, to the 3rd and 4th, of May. Dinner will be served on the ground the first day.

Success to the REPUBLICAN.

CROMWELL CULLINGS.

The "Henderson State Line" can be heard frequently once more.

Little Frankie, daughter of Netter Gillstrap, is quite ill of pneumonia. Married, on the 17th inst., at the residence of the bride's father, Miss Vesta Wilson and Finis Burden. Miss Mosha Leach and Julian Ranney were married Sunday morning at the residence of the bride, in the presence of a large number of friends.

Miss Mattie Chinn, an attractive and popular young lady of the Boda neighborhood, returned to her home last week, after a two weeks' visit to friends and relatives here.

Our spring school is still without a teacher, and some competent person would find a pleasant and paying position, as our people are enterprising and liberal as to school matters.

Wanted, to know if one Benjamin Harrison Chinn, of Beaver Dam, succeeded in reaching his home last Sunday without being frozen, stolen or "haunted."

The usual tranquil serenity of our little town has been dispelled by the advent of a 20th century disciple known as George Hilary Dorris, who hails from the classic hills of Tennessee. Those who presume to differ from him religiously are pronounced "dead certain for Hell" and he offers to bet a "ten dollar gold piece" that he can prove his every assertion. He is carrying on at the school house and although but few people have the slightest confidence in his sincerity, he has had good congregations at each "performance," and the boys frequently yield to his pleadings; and "stand up" for his prayers. There is a difference of opinion as to whether he is an enthusiastic crank or hypocrite, but your humble correspondent begs to say his ravings show too much method for ignorance and decidedly too much profanity to be tolerated by God-fearing people and especially in the house of God, as I understand he has been allowed to preach (2) in churches at some points. His stay here will doubtless be a short one, and I trust for the good name of Ohio county that his stay in the county may be brief.

A CHRISTIAN.

ROSINE.

March 22.—Miss S. Ragland & Son's stove machine has been doing an immense business here for the past month.

A freight train killed a very valuable horse of R. R. Wedding's one day last week.

Prof. A. Lee Bennett commenced the spring school here last Monday week with a great number of pupils.

J. F. Allen and wife, entertained a few of their young friends very pleasantly Saturday night.

S. C. Walker and wife returned to their home in Glasgow to day, accompanied by Miss Jessie Allen, who will enter Liberty College.

Mrs. E. D. Guffy and little daughter, Mercedes, have returned to their home at Hartford.

Miss Belle Whittinghill has gone to Tridler to teach a spring school.

Miss Nora Martin, of Beaver Dam, was the guest of Miss Leta Ragland Sunday. George Davis, Owensboro; W. P. Thomas, Hartford, were town Saturday. E. H. White and wife have moved to Louisville.

Success to the REPUBLICAN.

BITTER SWEET.

KINDERHOOK.

March, 27.—Miss Oona Tanner, from above Hartford, spent last week in Kinderhook the guest of R. A. Anderson's family.

Miss Prudie Bennett, No Creek, is the guest of Willie Ward and family at this writing.

L. F. Hocker, a former resident of Kinderhook, but now of near Curdsville, Daviess county, is visiting friends and relatives at this place.

Ed Ward, No Creek, spent Sunday in Kinderhook.

Mrs. James H. Patton is sick at this writing.

Mrs. Bettie Maple, who has been confined to her room, for sometime is no better at this writing.

On the 18th of March the white angels of death swept over this community and took from our midst Anderson, the infant son of A. W. and Lottie Mills, age 3 years. He was sick only a few days with that fearful disease, pneumonia. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. G. J. Bean at A'xander school house, after which the little one was laid to rest in the cold and silent grave at that place. We sympathize with the family in their sad bereavement.

GRASSHOPPER.

FORDSVILLE.

March, 19.—Mrs. Jones, of this place, is slowly improving. Her brother, Andy Gray, of Jefferson town, was called to her bed side by telegram last week.

Bud McQuaddy's saw mill blew up last week, but no one hurt.

Prof. Stum's school is progressing very nicely.

Miss Maggie Johnson, who taught school near Patesville, is attending school here.

Dr. Alva Jones, of this place, is attending the Medical School at Louisville.

Mrs. Leeanna Smith, of near here, is up again.

Miss Dimple Hayes called at the store the other day for "ho-made" sugar, but received C. E. Ford instead.

Cooper & Sutton have got in their new spring goods.

Ollie Huff, of Whitesville, was up visiting his mother, last Saturday night and Sunday.

E. M. J.

POINT PLEASANT.

The farmers have been very busy preparing their corn ground for the plow.

The public school, which was taught by Miss Mezie Tichenor, closed on the 11th inst. Quite a number of the patrons and young people were present.

Rev. D. J. K. Maddox filled his appointment at this place Sunday.

C. T. Maddox, David Maddox and Azzie Maddox, of West Providence, and A. Lee Bennett, Centertown, attended church here Sunday.

Little Roscoe Render is visiting his sister, Mrs. Alvin Rowe, of Centertown this week.

J. W. Tichenor has not entirely recovered from la grippe.

Willie, the little boy of J. M. Stogner, was severely burned on last Friday. His clothes caught fire from the grate, and there being no one in the room but his little sister, he was badly burned before aid could reach him. Edwin Rowe is on the sick list.

Success to your highly appreciated paper and its worthy editors, is the wish of

is one of those inventions that seems to be finished. It seems to reach the end as to goodness of light in every way, and ease of management.

The only care it requires is wiping. Dirt falls out when the chimney is taken off, not into pocket as in other central-lamp lamps.

Putting in a new wick is a very easy matter indeed. All this seems strange to one who knows how troublesome other good lamps are. It is in all the good lamp stores. Send for a primer.

During last December Eli Chinn, of the Woodwards, Valley neighborhood, received a severe fall that was apparently of but little consequence. A few weeks ago he was taken with a sudden and severe headache during which a film came over his eyes which rendered him totally blind. It is thought that the blindness was superinduced by the fall.

"Seeing is Believing."

And a good lamp must be simple: when it is not simple it is not good. Simple, Beautiful, Good—these words mean much, but to see "The Rochester" will impress the truth more forcibly. All metal, tough and seamless, and made in three pieces only, it is absolutely safe and unbreakable. Like Aladdin's of old, it is indeed a "wonderful lamp," for its marvelous light is purer and brighter than gas light, softer than electric light and more cheerful than either.

Look for this lamp—THE ROCHESTER. If the lamp dealer hasn't the genuine Rochester, and the style you want, send to us for our new illustrated catalogue. We will send you a lamp safely by express—your choice of over 2,000. Watch for the Largest Lamp Store in the World.

Judge Baird Dead.
The reaper of death has again visited our town and taken away one of our oldest and best citizens. Alexander Barnett Baird was born in this county, February 21, 1821; died March 20, 1892. At the age of 21 he was appointed Deputy Sheriff of Ohio county, and in 1851 he was elected Justice of the Peace, being one of the first to serve under the new Constitution, but resigned to take his seat as County Judge when that position was elected in 1854, holding that office two terms—8 years; in 1861 he was engaged in the tobacco business here as agent for a New York firm. Since then he has been engaged in Civil Engineering and Surveying business. He was a prominent member of the C. P. Church, in which he stood high, having represented that Church in a General Assembly at Keosauqua, Pa.

On December 24, 1844, he was married to Miss Sallie M. Barnett and is the father of Col. C. T. Baird, of Louisville; Dr. A. B. Baird, of this town, and the father-in-law of Gen. Sam E. Hill, of Lexington. He was buried in the Hartford Cemetery Monday at 3 p. m., in the presence of a large crowd of growing friends and relatives.

Ben Long and son, Ben, living about two miles above town, were accused of hog stealing, and on last Saturday a warrant was issued for their arrest. On Monday about 3 o'clock Town Marshal W. P. Thomas and J. S. Moseley went to their home and arrested the two men, who made no resistance and said they would go along at once. All parties were sitting by the fire talking when young Ben got up, walked to the rear of the room and taking down an old musket when the officers were not expecting it, turned upon them with the gun. Moseley ran to a rear door of the house while Long continued to advance on Thomas, who tried to knock the gun away, but missing it, received the load in his forearm, which was torn in a frightful manner. The load went up his sleeve and not a shot passed out, the wad, shot and all lodging in his arm near the elbow. Moseley fired from the rear but missed Long, and Thomas, who had fallen, needing his attention, he was assisting him when Long appeared at the door and threatened to shoot both of them. Moseley finally succeeded in getting Thomas out of the yard and leaving him in the care of old man Long and Strother Hawkins, came to town for a physician. Young Long loaded his gun and came on to where Thomas was lying wounded, attempted to shoot him, but being prevented by his father and Hawkins, fled. Thomas was brought home and Drs. Pendleton, Baird and Miller dressed his wound.

A close watch has been kept for Long, but so far he has not been captured.

IN AND ABOUT TOWN.
Hartford is noted for her professional snow-fighters. Scars on the faces of some of the town boys will readily testify to the above fact.

'Tis getting quite fashionable in Hartford society to send cards before breakfast. We have never had any experience in this line neither do we wish to, for we think it altogether disgusting.

The "Jim" who tried to get the rich man to attend the meeting and do good, is just to the reverse of a certain "Brown" man when the members of a certain class at College, get on the right track, always has a tendency to get them to do wrong, but 'tis like pouring water on a duck's back—has no effect whatever.

Notwithstanding the fact that we're a regular church-goer, have been attending the protracted meeting all the time, trying to do our duty, we are almost forced to leave our religion to some extent, when we miss a stepping-stone now and then get our "Golden Slippers" in such a condition that we are compelled to stay at home from the day service to attend to them—this is our "Desert of Persecution".

PERSONAL.

Miss Sara Collins, of Anderson's Bazaar, who has been in Cincinnati for past ten days buying a spring stock of millinery and picking up new novelties and ideas, will be home Monday.

Miss Dora Gibson, who has been confined to her room for some time on the account of a fall last December, is out again. Her many friends were glad to see her on the streets Wednesday.

TOWN TATTLER.

A citizen was recently heard to say that if Congress votes $5,000,000 for the World's Fair the Congressmen ought to be hanged, and that if the President signs the bill he ought to be burned at the stake; and he was a Kentuckian, too.

"To go or not to go, that is the question," murmured a young man under his breath as he heard the clock in an adjoining room strike ten. He cast a glance at the fair one nestling in the rocking-chair a little way off, and she seemed to have a "do-stay-a-little-longer dear" expression on her face which was, however, the opposite of what she felt, and so he decided that "not to go" was the proper solution. How vain is human reasoning. Four minutes later that youth was wending his way sorrowfully to his room, thinking a blue streak of bad thoughts against the old man, for having called bed-time at such a moment.

Frank Decker, of the Louisville Commercial, received a letter the other day from Beaver Dam, telling him that he could do good work in the way of securing subscriptions for the great daily if he would come down. He lost no time in coming and arrived in the little city Monday on the 12:30 train, ready for his work. But it soon dawned upon him that our Beaver Dam was not the place he was looking for, that it was a boat landing on Barren River to which he had been called. He realized he was left, so he came over to Hartford, conferred with our hustling newswriter, Walter Martin, met his old friends, made new acquaintances and Tuesday morning started on his way rejoicing.

Who is it that wouldn't envy the man when in this fix:
WHEN TWO FEET APART.
"Yes, I think it's about time for me to settle down—I'm going to give up cigarettes—you're awfully pretty to-night—"
"You know that—that I don't like to be flattered—"
"It's not flattery—"
WHEN ONE FOOT APART.
"Don't—please don't—"
"Oh, nonsense! no one can—can see—"
"But it isn't—right—"
"Oh!" etc., etc.
WHEN HALF A FOOT APART.
"Sweetheart—"
"Love—"
WHEN JAM UP TOGETHER.
etc., etc., and more of it.

Not many weeks ago there was noticed one Saturday morning an unusual hustle and hurry about the Temple of Justice. There was a great demand for rubber boots, leggings, coats, double-barreled shotguns and good horses. It was soon rumored that three of the jolly denizens of the Temple of Justice were preparing to go duck-hunting. About noon everything being ready, the trio moved gaily out of town, led by the high-mettled sorrel and his gallant rider. If there had been any feeling of envy among the unfortunate ones who were unable to take part in the anticipated sport, it was surely not lessened by witnessing the jovial fellows as they rode away to the fate, where the aquatics were supposed to float on the placid bosom of the Big Pond in all the abundance a nimrod could desire. Hours passed and nothing was heard of the hunters. At last in the dim distance the report of a gun was heard, then another and another and another, until it seemed one continuous round—in short, that a battery of French mitrailleuse had been turned loose on a Prussian squadron, so incessant was the firing.

All expected the hunters would come home laden with spoils, but what was the surprise of all, when the shades of evening began to fall and the hunters returned, one at a time, wet, mud-spattered and undone, each with a lonely wood-peck's scalp dangling at his belt.

Black Bro. Drab and other colors of Henrietta and Serges all go at slaughtered prices, we have not space to name here. Dress trimmings are also included in this Slaughter sale. Everything goes.

In shoes we are murdering prices on everything we handle, except our Anderson's "Wear-Forever," "Great Wear" and $1.00 shoes. Notwithstanding this Slaughter of prices every shoe we have is worth much more than our regular marked prices as is evidenced by the increased demand for our SOLID LEATHER shoes at Honest Prices.

We also have a "Job Lot" of Anderson's "Wear-Forever" shoes, Ladies sizes, in both button and front lace that were slightly damaged in the manufacture worth $1.50 and $1.75 which we have thrown into a pile and offer pick and choice of the lot at $1.00 a pair. No more when these are gone.

Our children, misses and ladies rubber overshoes go now at 12c, 15c and 18c a pair. We won't have them long at these prices.

We can hardly begin to enumerate the many articles on which you can save big money but will ask you to consider prices we do quote above and if there is anything else you want at Sacrifice prices call on SARA & ME at

March 18.—Not so strange after all. Some say: "A strange thing in this age of ours, is to find grown-up men and women professing to doubt even the existence of a God or the credibility of Scripture." We wonder how people can believe anything who are capable of doubting in the face of such accumulated proofs and evidences. They are to be pitied but not puffed over such mental or moral obliquity in this nineteenth century. Probably a majority who may chance to read this will say that it is so, but don't be too fast in rendering your judgment in the case. Is it Bob Ingersoll causing the above mentioned unbelief? I trow not. Who then? First, the man who calls himself an Ambassador for Christ, and shuns to declare the whole counsel of God, and feels a little too modest to say: "Woe unto him that giveth his neighbor drink, that putteth the bottle to him and maketh him drunken, also, that thou mayest look on his nakedness? Thou art filled with shame for thy glory, drink thou also, and let thy forehead be uncovered; the cup of the Lord's right hand shall be turned unto thee, and shameful spewing shall be on thy glory. For the violence of Lebanon shall cover thee, and the spoil of beasts, which made them afraid because of men's blood, and for the violence of the land, of the city, and all that dwell therein." May possible in some instances be either directly or indirectly concerned in the traffic, or renting or furnishing a building or capital to run the accused business. Instead of lifting up his voice like a trumpet to cry aloud and spare not, saying: "Wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging, and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise, and knows well that he has members in his church that get beastly drunk."

The second man is the one who can shout himself hoarse crying down with the thieving tariff, and believing he is doing God's service, and possibly not thinking that the Boss who told him to say that, is being paid well in British Gold, to betray our American institutions, and is laughing at his folly. But we say, brother, you belong to the church and you tell me you are a child of a King, now Bob Ingersoll, with all his infidelity publicly and very badly declares that rum is the devil's best friend and God's worst enemy.

Now brother, come, let us work together, use every honorable means to suppress this destroyer of all good. Will you tell the Grand Jury, or U. S. Marshal, how many jug-fulls that fellow has peddled out in the last six months, in open defiance of the law of God and man? No I can't do that. Well, will you vote for local option prohibition? No, I don't believe in taking away men's rights. Well brother, what can or will you do in the premises? I don't know. Well what of the man that claims to be a Christian and will set and laugh at a fellow creature, charged with red liquor and listen to his foul obscene language and to all appearance enjoy his company, and what of the church member, that habitually use very obscene language, and drinks the abominable stuff too, can you think of it as being so strange that grown up people doubt the existence of a God, or the credibility of the Scripture when we claim such wonders for the Gospel.

The characters above mentioned, not only make infidels, but make themselves a laughing-stock for the Devil.

OWENSBORO ITEMS.

March 14, '92.—We are pleased to have space given us among the many correspondents of the REPUBLICAN for the weekly notes from our city, where many read this paper with interest. There has been nothing to disturb the serenity of our city during the past week, in the way of tragedies or sensations, and peace-loving people wish to see justice dealt out to offenders in such manner that this peaceful attitude may be maintained.

The beautiful weather of Sunday afternoon drew many people forth for a few hours enjoyment in the sunshine, and it seems that spring had come in earnest. The streets, which were in that happy condition of "No mud and no dust" afforded splendid drive-ways for the many carriages out, but the sudden return of winter sends us shivering back to our fire-side to day.

The reading of Thomas Nelson Page on last Wednesday night was a treat to literary people of Owensboro. Many failed to secure seats, but were left the resources of visiting the book-store and reading for themselves the works of this noted Southern author.

The burning of the opera house last October has deprived theater-going people of much amusement, but judging from the many inferior theatricals played before the people last winter, the loss has been more than compensated by the members of reading lectures and musicales furnished by different organizations and churches. That new but prosperous institution, the Owensboro Female College has continued their literary treats a series of lectures, the second of which was delivered recently by Judge L. P. Little, on "Sir Walter Scott."

Dr. J. H. Boyett filled his pulpit at the First Baptist Church Sunday, after spending some time in Louisville, where he delivered a series of fifty-four successful sermons.

Settle Chapel, M. E. Church, is shortly to be re-modded and a lecture-room erected. After its completion a $3,000 pipe organ will be presented by the Ladies Aid of the Church.

Rev. W. E. Cook, Owensboro Circuit, of M. E. Church, has secured the German church on Trittplett Street and will in the future hold monthly worship at that place.

Contrary to the custom of several years past the Owensboro High School will come out of the ruins this year and hold commencement exercises in May.

Mr. Hubbard lectured before the Public Schools of the city in the interests of the Humane Society of Boston Mass. From some of the Literatures of the Society, I would advocate placing its works within the reach of every county school and that they should be read by every teacher before his school.

FRIENDSHIP.

March 12, '92.—You made me say in your issue of Feb. 10th, that W. H. Royal was improving, but such was not the case, as he has been growing worse ever since he became ill and his recovery is now almost despaired of. Mrs. Mary F. Royal, who has been confined to her bed ever since the 31st of December is slowly improving.

A youthful visitor made its appearance at the residence of A. M. Johnson a few days ago. It's a boy.

One Miss, or a young woman, Askins, of Deaneville, happened to quite a distressing accident a few days ago, which your scribe mentions for the benefit of the Price Gazette, Herald, if they will send their long Carpet Bagger, or little Prosecutor to Deaneville they can probably obtain the minute details.

Jo Edge and Mrs. L. Huff were married a few days ago by Rev. R. D. Westerfield. James Roach and Miss Apalane Edge, also, committed matrimony a few days ago. Rev. Wright tied the knot. May they always be happy and lead good lives, make good husbands and make good wives.

Those desiring a sitting of pig ears should read Miss Nameloe's letter on the last page of the REPUBLICAN of Feb. 26. I suppose those wanting the ready incubated pigs can get them if his incubator incubates.

A little four year old son of a gentleman, who took one of our young lady's for his second wife a short time ago, was told that his father's wife was his step-mother. He was heard afterwards calling her "walk-ma."

A little three year old daughter of our deacon was heard to ask for some "meetin' bread"—not meat and bread—at church not long ago, when the sacrament was being passed around.

J. S. M. Royal, who has been living near Sugar Grove schoolhouse for about two years, has moved back to his father's farm, where he formerly lived.

Rev. R. J. Brandon and W. W. Royal made a flying trip to Owensboro and back Friday. H. S. Royal and J. R. Evans, of Selet, spent a few days in this vicinity this week.

Master Cary Wallace, who lives near Fordsville, is on an extensive visit to his grand-father's near No Creek. Billy Bob Wells and wife, of Fordsville, are visiting his brother-in-law C. P. Weis.

Miss Eliza Kelley, a charming young lady, who lives near Deaneville, has been visiting her brother, A. P. Kelley, for several weeks.

Baker Wells is visiting his step-son, R. V. Wells, near Fordsville.

Hon. J. S. R. Wedding, of Hartford, came up from Owensboro to Whitesville Friday. Dr. and Mrs. J. W. McCarty, of Fordsville, went to Owensboro and back Friday.

REPUBLICAN correspondents, let's hear from you as to your choice for President. Speak out in no uncertain tone and please don't say Harrison because our county paper does. As for me, I'm against Harrison, until he is nominated, not because he has given us a well-nigh perfect administration, but because Blaine can poll more votes. R. E. PUBLISHER.

A WONDERFUL PARROT.

He Learned to Press the Button and Give the Flashing Tactile Orders.

A gentleman who has returned from Mexico, and who brought with him a parrot which he purchased in Vera Cruz, has been very much astonished at some tricks which that bird has learned during the few days he has been in the house. The bird's owner, Colonel Howard Johnson, occupies a beautiful residence in the suburbs, and Joeko has from the first shown the liveliest interest in all his surroundings. It was very soon found that he could not be allowed his liberty in Mrs. Johnson's room, as he at once formed a terrible antipathy to a beautiful parrot skin rug in which the head is remarkably lifelike, and the moment he was released he would make for the rug and begin biting savagely at its eyes and nose. He escaped from his cage one day and almost demolished the nose of the rug, and after that he was chained to his perch.

It happened that for several days in succession, the perch stood by the wall, close beside the electric bell. When Mrs. Johnson touched the button, Joeko took notes, with his head on one side and a most inquiring air, and when the servant appeared immediately afterward Joeko gave a faint croak of astonishment. After witnessing this performance several times it was evident that Joeko began to see some connection between the button and the servant.

He spent a great deal of time studying the button, running his beak softly around it, and apparently communing with himself, his mistress watching him meanwhile, highly amused at his cleverness. At last, whether accidentally or otherwise, Joeko discovered the connection and pressed the button. The next moment a servant appeared, and the little schemer straightened up and said with great gravity, "Joeko's hungry."

The mistress' shouts of laughter and the servant's astonishment did not in the least discompose him. He had rung for what he wanted, and he insisted on having it.

The scheme worked well, to Joeko's manifest delight. He rang the bell again before half an hour, and remarked to the servant who answered the call: "Well, you are a daisy! Joeko wants water!"

Colonel Johnson is so delighted with his bird's accomplishment that he invited some friends in to witness it last night. Joeko was inclined to sulk at first, but finally brightened up, and was soon working at the button. When the servant entered Joeko poised himself on one foot, swung his body to and fro in a most affected way, and exclaimed: "Hello, Tom, is that you? Bring in another bottle of wine, will you?"

Colonel Johnson, be it understood, is a church member, and his minister was present, and the colonel insists that Joeko caught this trick before he came into his hands.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Inscriptions on Ancient Swords.

The various inscriptions found on the blades of swords may be said to constitute a literature of themselves. This "century poetry," as Shakespeare calls it, is not the least interesting feature of a sword collection. Hundreds of Toledo rapier blades were engraved with the wise counsel, "Do not draw me without reason, do not sheathe me without honor." On an old Ferrara blade is the following inscription: "My value varies with the hand that holds me." A little ax of formidable appearance bears the comfortable assurance, "When I go up you go down," and on an old Hungarian sword is inscribed, "He that thinks not as I do thinks falsely."

Besides the mottoes on the blades are engraved the maker's name and address or the owner's arms. During the sixteenth century warriors regarded elaborately ornamented hilts with as much interest as we look on works of art at the present day. The blades of Italian swords were also sometimes beautifully ornamented.—Kate Field's Washington.

The Care of a Lamp.

To lessen the chance of accident from explosion of a lamp, trim the wick of the lamp daily. When burned for several evenings without trimming, the wick becomes black, clogged and incapable of supplying the oil clearly and uniformly, and the flames are sometimes filled with flame and smoke, to every one's alarm. Some accidents would be prevented by not blowing down the chimney to put the lamp out, for the wick sometimes happens to be a little too small, and leaves room enough to allow the flame to be driven down into the oil. The safest way to put out a lamp is to turn the thumb-screw until the wick goes down past the top of the burner. It will then go out of itself.—Detroit Free Press.

Shakespeare's Will.

Any person desirous of inspecting the actual last will and testament of Shakespeare can do so by visiting Somerset house and paying a shilling. The visitor is conducted to a dimly lighted room, in which this precious relic is preserved, and is not a little astonished to find it securely fixed in a series of frames, protected by glass.—London Tit-Bits.

Something Dropped in the Sun.

The most interesting of recent photographs of the sun shows a remarkable solar disturbance, in which vapors ascended to a height of 80,000 miles. This eruption lasted fully fifteen minutes and was accompanied by fluctuations of the compass needle.—New York Recorder.

Visited More Once.

Little five year old Puss, one of the sweetest of mortals, was taken to church the other Sunday and behaved very sedately for a time, but the sermon was long, and before the clergyman had got to "thirteenth" Puss said to mamma, in a voice intended to be confidential, but it piped up loud enough to be heard by several weary listeners, "I have heard talk enough; I want more music!"—Boston Journal.

Force of Habit.

It is reported that a Yankee upon being introduced at court to Queen Victoria reached out his hand to shake with her, remarking as he did so: "What's the name? I didn't quite catch it!"—Chicago Herald.

THE NEW WEBSTER WEBSTER'S INTERNATIONAL DICTIONARY.

Revised and Enlarged. Over 100,000 Words. Fully Revised. A GRAND INVESTMENT for every Family and School.

The Authentic Webster's Unabridged Dictionary, comprising 100,000 words, 12 vols., 12 and 16, (all rights reserved) has been thoroughly revised and enlarged, under the supervision of Noah Porter, D.D., LL.D., of Yale University, and is a distinguishing feature of the time.

INTERNATIONAL DICTIONARY. The work of revision occupied over ten years, more than a hundred editorial laborers, being employed over $300,000 expended before the first copy was printed.

GOLD LEAF EDITION. Pamphlet sent free by the publishers. Caution is needed in purchasing a dictionary, as many cheaply made and inferior ones are being sold. Webster's being the most reliable and complete. GET THE BEST. The International Dictionary is published by G. & C. MERRIAM & CO., Publishers, Springfield, Mass. U.S.A.

Mexican Mustang Liniment

A Cure for the Ailments of Man and Beast.

A long-tested pain reliever. Its use is almost universal by the Housewife, the Farmer, the Stock Raiser, and by every one requiring an effective liniment. No other application compares with it in efficacy. This well-known remedy has stood the test of years, almost generations. No medicine chest is complete without a bottle of MUSTANG LINIMENT. Occasions arise for its use almost every day. All druggists and dealers have it.
